

Technology.

As a technology business, you face a variety of risks unlike traditional brick and mortar organizations and it is important to work with insurance professionals who are knowledgeable about your company's operations. At Manry Rawls, we understand the issues faced when working with technology businesses, from emerging start-up Internet companies to well-established software firms.

As consultants in 'technology risk insurance' also known as cyber insurance, we are knowledgeable about various types of coverage available to protect a company from any technology breach. This coverage is particularly important if you conduct business over the Internet to make sure you have the right coverage in place to protect against fraud by hackers and any other third parties. Our consultants are well-versed on all of the insurance products offered in today's marketplace to protect this type of security breach as well as many other types of perils.

We deliver the solutions that give our clients a true competitive advantage. We make your technology firm feel as at Home with Manry Rawls as on the net.